Coming to the Table Where All are Welcome

Jesus didn't proclaim the Kingdom of God with big theological words which were hard to understand. He pointed to the Kingdom as a feast around a table where all are welcome. Jesus got into trouble because of His eating buddies. He would eat with anyone. As we prepare to receive the Lord's Supper around His table, who are people we can exclude because they are different? What prejudices about people do we need to confess? As we come to the table, how can we become more of a servant who thinks of others?
