

The Worship of God
Sunday, August 05, 2018

August is here and so we know the start of school is just ahead. With the start of school, we anticipate a certain routine, a set schedule. We will soon “get into the swing of things” and become familiar with that routine. Routines are not bad, assuming that what we are doing does not go against God’s design for our lives. The routine of worship obviously does not go against God’s design for us, in fact it was designed with us in mind. So as you prepare yourself for worship this morning, is your routine comfortable? Is it familiar? What do you need to do right now to truly be ready to worship?
