The Second Sunday of Lent - The Grace of an Example

Grace comes in many forms. One of the ways we learn about life is through the lives of others who are examples for us to follow and emulate. We often hear at funerals about the life led by the deceased and how we should try to follow their example. Simply put, our lives are on display to those around us, whether we like it or not. Just as we look to others, others are looking to us. As you prepare for worship this morning, who has been an example for you to follow? Offer a word of thanks to God for that person. Who is looking to you to be an example? Pray that God will allow you to reflect Him in all that you do this week as to be a Godly example for others.
